Dear Doctors!

I am writing in regards to the human rights which you are conducting a review of and in particular to the current policy.

The current policy states that doctors in Ontario have the right to refuse to provide non-emergency care that does not confirm to their moral or religious beliefs. This policy allows them to opt case referrals such as abortions, emergency contraception and other medical care which violates their own conscience. I want this current policy to be maintained absolutely.

Our country has seen a number of disturbing trends which threaten the rights of freedom of conscience and religion. As we witness these trends in many different sectors, we must renew our commitment to build a society in which every individual and every faith community enjoys true freedom of conscience and religion.

Just as a side bar, in regards to abortion how do you know that the baby which is aborted, if left to be born, might have become a doctor who find a cure for some disease.
You Don't Have A Cure For Now.
